MESSAGE

The School Quality Assessment and Assurance Framework (SQAAF) represents a transformative approach to ensuring quality and excellence in our schools. Designed to address the multifaceted needs of our education system, SQAAF offers a comprehensive framework that evaluates schools across five critical domains: Administration, Curriculum, Assessment, Infrastructure, and Inclusiveness.

This framework is not just a tool for assessment but a guide for continuous improvement. It reflects the principles and objectives of the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, emphasizing the importance of learner-centric education, inclusivity, and innovation. By aligning school practices with clearly defined performance indicators, SQAAF empowers institutions to identify their strengths, address challenges, and implement forward-thinking strategies that prepare students for the complexities of the modern world.

The focus on inclusiveness and equity within SQAAF ensures that every student, regardless of their socio-economic background, receives a quality education. It underscores the need for competency-based assessments, holistic progress cards, and sustainable infrastructure, while fostering an environment where all stakeholders, including parents, teachers, and the community, collaborate in the pursuit of excellence.

As we launch this framework, I call upon school leaders, educators, policymakers, and community members to adopt SQAAF as a shared mission. The responsibility of nurturing the next generation lies with all of us, and by implementing this framework, we can ensure that every school becomes a beacon of learning, innovation, and equity. Let us together redefine the standards of education and create a brighter future for our children and our nation.

MESSAGE

The School Quality Assessment and Assurance Framework (SQAAF) is a testament to our shared vision of creating schools that are inclusive, innovative, and future-ready. At its core, SQAAF provides schools with a structured roadmap to evaluate their performance across five domains: Administration, Curriculum, Assessment, Infrastructure, and Inclusiveness.

This framework is more than a set of benchmarks; it is a catalyst for transformation. By addressing key aspects such as leadership and governance, competency-based assessments, holistic progress cards, and sustainable infrastructure, SQAAF ensures that schools are equipped to meet the challenges of the 21st century. Its emphasis on inclusiveness aligns with our national goal of bridging educational disparities, ensuring that every child, irrespective of their circumstances, has access to opportunities that nurture their potential.

One of the most commendable aspects of SQAAF is its adaptability. It encourages schools to move beyond compliance and adopt innovative practices that resonate with local and global educational trends. From integrating technology in classrooms to promoting community engagement, this framework fosters a culture of continuous learning and improvement.

As we embark on this significant initiative, I extend my gratitude to the educators, policymakers, and stakeholders who have contributed to its development. The true success of SQAAF, however, lies in its implementation. I urge school leaders, teachers, and communities to embrace this framework with enthusiasm and commitment. Together, let us build schools that are not only centers of academic excellence but also nurturing spaces that inspire curiosity, creativity, and character in every child.

Foreword

Quality education is the foundation of a strong society, and schools play an integral role in shaping the future of our nation. The School Quality Assessment and Assurance Framework (SQAAP) serves as a powerful tool for ensuring that schools maintain the highest standards in both their academic and operational practices. By focusing on core areas like leadership, policy implementation, communication, and resource management, the framework provides schools with clear guidelines for continuous improvement.

The SQAAP's comprehensive structure encourages schools to not only meet immediate needs but also to anticipate future challenges, fostering innovation and long-term sustainability. Its focus on transparency and collaboration between schools and stakeholders ensures that the framework is not just a regulatory tool but a partnership for progress. It lays the foundation for schools to become centers of excellence, where quality education is delivered with a commitment to inclusivity and equity.

This framework is a step towards elevating the standards of education and nurturing the potential of every student. I am confident that its implementation will lead to substantial and lasting improvements in our schools, benefiting generations to come.

Preface

The School Quality Assessment and Assurance Framework (SQAACF) has been meticulously developed as a comprehensive tool to guide schools in their journey toward excellence. This framework transcends traditional assessment methods, offering a structured and dynamic approach to enhancing every aspect of school operations, from governance to pedagogy and community engagement.

SQAACF's strength lies in its holistic vision, which integrates five pivotal domains—Administration, Curriculum, Assessment, Infrastructure, and Inclusiveness—each supported by detailed sub-domains that address critical areas of school functioning. For instance, the Administration domain emphasizes effective leadership, governance, financial management, and stakeholder engagement, ensuring schools are equipped to operate transparently and strategically. Similarly, the Curriculum domain focuses on aligning educational content with the principles of the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, fostering interdisciplinary learning, skill development, and adaptability to future challenges.

The framework underscores the importance of innovative and equitable assessment practices, exemplified by the emphasis on competency-based evaluations, holistic progress cards (HPCs), and mechanisms for self-reflection and peer feedback. Through a three-tiered performance level system—Abhilasha (Needs Improvement), Pragati (Performing Satisfactorily), and Jagriti (Exemplary Performance)—SQAACF offers schools a clear roadmap for progression, enabling them to identify areas of growth and adopt targeted interventions.

Inclusiveness forms the cornerstone of this framework, as it evaluates schools on their ability to address the needs of diverse learners, including those from marginalized communities and students with special needs. The domain of Infrastructure highlights the importance of creating safe, accessible, and resource-rich environments that promote holistic development and well-being. Additionally, SQAACF's focus on sustainability encourages schools to integrate green practices, innovative technology, and community collaboration into their operational ethos.

SQAACF is designed not just as a benchmarking tool but as a catalyst for systemic improvement and stakeholder engagement. By integrating feedback mechanisms and fostering a culture of collaboration, the framework ensures that schools remain responsive to the evolving needs of learners and society. It enables institutions to adopt global best practices while staying rooted in the cultural and educational aspirations of the nation.

I sincerely believe that SQAAF will inspire schools, educators, and communities to redefine quality education. It is my hope that this framework will not only support schools in meeting established standards but also encourage them to set new benchmarks of excellence. By embracing SQAAF, we take a decisive step towards creating a future where every school thrives as a hub of innovation, inclusivity, and lifelong learning.

INTRODUCTION

The School Quality Assessment and Assurance Framework (SQAAF) is a transformative and structured tool meticulously designed to evaluate, enhance, and sustain the quality of education in schools. As the educational landscape evolves in response to societal and technological advancements, schools must adopt mechanisms that foster continuous improvement and ensure excellence in every aspect of their operations. SQAAF serves as both a diagnostic and developmental framework, providing schools with clear benchmarks across critical domains that collectively define educational quality.

SQAAF aligns with the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 and the National Curriculum Framework to ensure schools provide inclusive, equitable, and high-quality education, fostering holistic student development and preparing learners for future challenges. It provides schools with a well-defined mechanism for self-assessment and accountability while encouraging data-driven decision-making and action plans.

A critical element of the implementation of SQAAF is the establishment of the State School Standard Setting Authority (SSSA) at the State/Union Territory (UT) level. As envisioned in NEP 2020, the SSSA serves as an independent, state-wide regulatory body tasked with:

- Quality Regulation and Accreditation: The SSSA ensures adherence to defined benchmarks of quality education by accrediting schools and monitoring compliance with minimal standards set collaboratively with PARAKH.
- Development of Standards: Collaborating with SCERT and other stakeholders, the SSSA develops global, evidence-based quality parameters to enhance school performance.

- Transparent Public Disclosure: SSSA ensures timely, transparent, and accurate dissemination of accreditation status and regulatory information through public platforms such as the State Vidya Samiksha Kendra portal.
- Data Management and Accountability: The SSSA maintains up-to-date records of schools, fostering informed decision-making and promoting accountability within the education ecosystem.
- Grievance Redressal Mechanism: The authority serves as a central platform for resolving complaints and grievances of students, parents, and school staff, enhancing trust and fairness.

The establishment of the SSSA complements the objectives of SQAAF by ensuring that schools across the States/UTs adhere to consistent standards of educational quality, align their operations with NEP 2020, and create an equitable learning environment.

The framework is built upon five core domains, each addressing a vital component of the educational ecosystem:

1. Administration: This domain evaluates the effectiveness of leadership, governance, strategic planning, financial management, and stakeholder engagement in creating a well-functioning institution.
2. Curriculum: SQAAF emphasizes the importance of aligning curriculum design with national frameworks like the NEP

2020 and NCF, while also promoting flexibility, innovation, skill development, and interdisciplinary learning.

3. Assessment: This domain focuses on designing and implementing robust, transparent, and equitable assessment systems that measure student outcomes holistically, including cognitive, social, and emotional growth.
4. Infrastructure: Recognizing the critical role of facilities in shaping learning environments, this domain assesses the adequacy of classrooms, laboratories, libraries, safety measures, and accessibility.
5. Inclusiveness: This domain evaluates the extent to which schools cater to diverse learners, including those with special needs, and ensure equity, cultural sensitivity, and socio-economic inclusivity.

By providing clear benchmarks for these domains, SQAAF empowers schools to align their practices with national and global educational standards, fostering a holistic approach to school improvement.

A defining feature of SQAAF is its commitment to measurable outcomes. Schools are guided to align their curriculum, assessments, and infrastructure with established standards while fostering innovation and adaptability. Through data-driven assessment tools, schools can monitor student performance, identify gaps, and implement targeted interventions. Regular feedback from stakeholders ensures that schools remain accountable and continuously evolve to meet emerging challenges.

In the Administration domain, the framework emphasizes transparent leadership, governance, and strategic planning. Schools are encouraged to involve staff and community members in decision-making, ensuring that institutional goals are aligned with learner outcomes. Curriculum standards are designed to support learner-centric approaches, encouraging schools to adopt innovative pedagogies, flexible pathways, and multidisciplinary practices.

The Assessment domain underscores the need for competency-based, project-driven, and formative evaluation techniques. These methods move beyond rote memorization to capture a 360-degree view of student progress. Similarly, the Infrastructure domain prioritizes the creation of safe, inclusive, and resource-rich learning environments that foster student engagement and well-being.

Inclusiveness lies at the heart of SQAAF, as the framework seeks to bridge educational inequities. The Inclusiveness domain assesses how schools address diverse learner needs, including those from underprivileged or marginalized communities, and ensure gender equality, cultural sensitivity, and socio-economic support.

Through its holistic approach, SQAAF not only measures institutional performance but also serves as a roadmap for excellence. The framework equips schools to adopt forward-thinking practices, integrate global trends, and nurture well-rounded individuals ready to contribute meaningfully to society. By aligning operational efficiency with educational standards and student well-being, SQAAF ensures that schools remain adaptable, accountable, and innovative.

In essence, SQAAF transforms schools into vibrant ecosystems of learning, where every stakeholder collaborates to create a future-ready educational experience. The framework aspires to foster institutions that do not merely meet benchmarks but set them—cultivating excellence, equity, and lifelong learning for all.

LEVELS OF PERFORMANCE IN SQAAF

To enable a structured and transparent evaluation of schools, the School Quality Assessment and Assurance Framework (SQAAF) employs a three-tiered performance level system across its domains and sub-domains. This system provides a clear picture of how schools are performing relative to the benchmarks outlined in the framework. The three levels of performance—Abhilasha, Pragati, and Jagriti—help schools identify their strengths and areas for improvement, fostering a culture of continuous growth and accountability.

1. ABHILASHA (Needs Improvement)

The Abhilasha level reflects the foundational stage of performance. Schools at this level show limited alignment with SQAAF benchmarks and often face significant gaps in planning, resources, and execution.

Key Characteristics:

- Minimal or inconsistent implementation of quality practices.
- Limited adherence to national and regional educational standards.
- Lack of structured systems for planning, monitoring, and feedback.
- Inadequate resources or infrastructure to meet the required benchmarks.

2. PRAGATI (Performing Satisfactorily)

The Pragati level represents schools that meet most of the standards but have scope for improvement to achieve excellence. Schools at this level demonstrate moderate effectiveness in implementing policies and practices, but they may lack innovation or system-wide integration.

Key Characteristics:

- Partial alignment with SQAAF standards.
- Moderate engagement of stakeholders and limited use of advanced tools or strategies.
- Practices are functional but may lack consistency or scalability.
- Room for improvement in inclusiveness, infrastructure, or monitoring systems.

3. JAGRITI (Exemplary Performance)

The Jagriti level signifies excellence in performance, where schools consistently meet or exceed the benchmarks outlined in the framework. These schools are recognized as leaders in education, setting high standards for others to follow.

Key Characteristics:

- Complete alignment with national and regional standards, as well as SQAAF benchmarks.
- Implementation of innovative, learner-centered practices.
- Strong systems for monitoring, feedback, and continuous improvement.
- Focus on inclusiveness, sustainability, and holistic development.

SCORING SYSTEM FOR SQAAF

The School Quality Assessment and Assurance Framework (SQAAF) uses a detailed scoring system to evaluate a school's performance across five key domains: Administration, Curriculum, Assessment, Infrastructure, and Inclusiveness. This scoring mechanism is designed to provide a clear, measurable, and actionable overview of how schools perform in critical areas, enabling targeted improvements.

Each sub-domain in the SQAAF framework is evaluated using a three-tiered performance level system, with each level assigned a specific score:

- Abhilasha (Needs Improvement):
Less than 60%
- Pragati (Performing Satisfactorily):
60%-75%
- Jagriti (Exemplary Performance):
More than 75%

The total score for each domain is calculated by summing the points earned across all sub-domains within that domain. Each sub-domain is assessed based on how well the school meets the benchmarks outlined in the SQAAF, with the total domain score reflecting the school's performance in that area.

CONCLUSION

The School Quality Assessment and Assurance Framework (SQAAF) represents a transformative approach to evaluating and enhancing the quality of education in schools. By providing a comprehensive, structured, and transparent framework, SQAAF enables schools to systematically assess their strengths and identify areas for improvement across five critical domains- Administration, Curriculum, Assessment, Infrastructure, and Inclusiveness. The inclusion of well-defined benchmarks, performance levels, and actionable feedback ensures that the framework is not just an evaluation tool but a roadmap for continuous development.

By integrating evidence-based assessment practices, data-driven decision-making, and continuous feedback loops, SQAAF equips schools to transition from traditional, rigid systems to dynamic, learner-centric environments. The framework prioritizes holistic student development, ensuring that learning outcomes extend beyond academics to include skills for life, character building, and emotional well-being.

A key advancement in ensuring the effective implementation of SQAAF is the role of the State School Standard Setting Authority (SSSA). SSSA provides the regulatory backbone needed to ensure consistent quality across schools while promoting transparency and accountability. With clearly defined standards, accreditation mechanisms, and public disclosure of performance outcomes, SSSA fosters a culture of trust and shared responsibility among stakeholders—schools, teachers, parents, and the broader community.

The collaboration between SSSA, PARAKH (Performance Assessment, Review, and Analysis of Knowledge for Holistic Development), and other regulatory bodies strengthens the link between policy and practice. This synergy ensures that schools not only meet the minimum benchmarks but also strive for excellence by aligning with the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 and the National Curriculum Framework. Furthermore, it empowers schools to implement innovative solutions, adapt to emerging trends in global education, and prepare learners for an increasingly interconnected and technology-driven world.

The SQAAF's scoring system, with its three-tiered performance levels (Abhilasha, Pragati, and Jagriti), ensures that schools receive fair and constructive evaluations. This approach not only identifies the current performance levels but also motivates schools to aspire for higher standards of excellence. Furthermore, the framework's focus on stakeholder engagement, technology integration, and sustainability reflects its forward-thinking and adaptive nature.

As schools progress through their SQAAF journey, the framework empowers them to build a culture of accountability, collaboration, and innovation. By adopting and internalizing the principles of SQAAF, schools can ensure that their students are not only prepared for academic success but also equipped with the skills, values, and resilience needed to thrive in an ever-changing world.

To ensure continuous progress, schools can establish robust monitoring mechanisms. Regular internal reviews, data-driven analysis, and reflective practices enable schools to track their progress over time.

Performance in each domain can be measured against the SQAAF scoring system, helping schools identify gaps, implement corrective actions, and move progressively from Abhilasha to Pragati and ultimately to Jagriti. Through self-assessment and stakeholder feedback, schools can ensure that improvements are not only systematic but also reflective of the needs and aspirations of their students and communities.

As we move forward, the successful implementation of SQAAF, backed by the SSSA, PARAKH, and state-level education authorities, will pave the way for a resilient, inclusive, and forward-looking education system. This collective effort will ensure that every learner receives an education that is equitable, inclusive, future-ready, and transformative—a true realization of the aspirations of NEP 2020 and a vision for a prosperous, knowledge-driven India.
